SHIPPINGWATCH

Headquartered in Copenhagen, ShippingWatch covers the maritime industry with a clear focus on companies and people rooted in Northern Europe. Through our daily newsletters, we aim to always provide accurate, relevant and useful news and insights about an industry which is changing rapidly. Be it carriers or logistics. Ports or suppliers. Offshore, environment or regulation.

DanskeRederier

Danish Shipping is a trade and employer organisation for Danish shipping, which is also the single largest export business in Denmark. Danish Shipping is also the core of the maritime cluster, Det Blå Danmark. There are almost 100 members of Danish Shipping, both shipowners and offshore companies. Half of the members of the organisation own ships registered in Denmark, while the other half operate their activities from Denmark.

Danish Shipping represent the shipowners' interests in negotiations with the government, the ministries, parliamentary members, the press, interest and employer organizations and the trade unions. In addition, Danish Shipping is a member of the international shipping organizations ICS and ECSA. The organization is therefore involved in all relevant contexts and has a permanent office in Brussels.

Danish Shipping secretariat also serves the Danish Ferry Association, which is an industry organization for the Danish ferry companies.

In June 2019, Denmark moved up the list of the world's largest maritime nations measured on merchant ships operated by Danish shipping companies. Denmark is now prevailing over the fifth largest trading fleet in the world.

16.10-16.40 STANDARDIZATION, DIGITALIZATION AND INTEROPERABILITY – THE MISSION OF THE DIGITAL CONTAINER SHIPPING ASSOCIATION

Five of the major container shipping companies has established an association with the mission to pave the way for interoperability in the container shipping industry through digitalization and standardization. The timing is right, as emerging technologies create new customer friendly opportunities. But why is interoperability important in the container shipping industry and how will cooperation in digitalization and standardization path the way to increased interoperability?

Digital Container Shipping Association (DCSA) is a neutral and non-profit association founded and supported by A.P. Moller – Maersk, CMA CGM, Hapag-Lloyd, MSC and ONE. The aim is to create common information technology standards to make the industry more efficient for both customers and shipping lines.

Thomas Bagge, CEO and Statutory Director, Digital Container Shipping Association

16.40-17.10 FIVE DIGITAL TRENDS IMPACTING THE FUTURE OF SHIPPING

The next wave of innovation within shipping will come from turning attention outward into the business ecosystem.

By combining the capabilities and resources of ecosystem partners, your organization will be able to create new business models, services and customer experiences, which would be impossible to create alone.

Critical technology-trends for capitalizing on business ecosystem opportunities include digital platforms, APIs, event processing and programmable economy.

The digital trends will be illustrated with examples from Henrik's experience as the innovator and designer of the Maersk/IBM's Blockchain initiative to digitalize global trade. His design of Blockshipping's blockchain platform for container sharing, and his investigating of blockchains feasibility for Trade Single Windows.

Henrik Hvid Jensen, Senior Advisor, Trustworks

Henrik Hvid Jensen has a unique combination of knowledge with the digitization of global trade, leading understanding of blockchains real possibilities and limitations, and practical experience in designing and realizing digital platforms and blockchain solutions for global trade ecosystems and government organizations. Henrik is the innovator and designer of the Maersk/IBM Blockchain initiative to digitalize global trade. He has designed Blockshipping's blockchain platform for container sharing, and has been investigating blockchains feasibility for national Trade Single Windows as well as international Trade Single Windows-interoperability. He is currently advising World Economic Forum's initiative on "Inclusive Deployment of Blockchain for Supply Chains" and is the lead author of WEF's recommendations for realizing a shared digital Global Trade Identity (GTID) for business and governments involved in global trade
